Dear Keith:

Enclosed is the original of a Proposed Revision to the General Education Requirements for Music Education. The proposal has the approval of the appropriate committees, including the Council on Teacher Education, and is now ready for review by the Senate Educational Policy Committee.

This proposal, which will bring general education requirements for music education students into alignment with campus general education requirements, was approved pending modifications, by the Executive Committee of the Council on Teacher Education on January 23, 2002. The requested modifications are reflected in the enclosed document.

Please contact Dr. Grashel or me if any additional information is requested.

Sincerely,

Dear Sheryl

Attached are the original copies of a proposal and letters of endorsement that would change the general education requirements for students in music education. The proposal has already been passed by the music education division, the undergraduate educational policy committee in the School of Music, the full faculty of the School of Music, and the courses and curriculum committee of the College of Fine and Applied Arts.

I would appreciate your distributing copies to the members of the CTE for consideration at its next meeting on Jan. 23, 2002. We are hoping to have the new requirements in place for students beginning Fall, 2002.

Cordially,

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

Effective May 1, 2000, the highly prescriptive general education requirements for teacher certification mandated by the Illinois State Board of Education were abolished. In their place is a broad category of general education requirements mandated by NCATE. Those requirements are easily met by UIUC general education requirements. At the meeting on June 30th, 2000, the UIUC Executive Committee of the Council on Teacher Education approved the termination of the Council on Teacher Education General Education Guidelines. This action cleared the way for each program area to review its requirements and make changes if warranted, provided that UIUC general education requirements are satisfied.

For students in the College of Fine and Applied Arts, the general education requirements are those specified for the campus. The Music Education Area Committee has recommended that the program include campus general education requirements plus one course in speech communication. See below for a listing of old and new requirements.

JUSTIFICATION

Graduates of this program are certified to teach music in kindergarten through grade 12. Their music education courses include extensive conducting and literature classes, and methods courses for instrumental, choral and classroom music. They must meet School of Music requirements as dictated by National Association of Schools of Music, as well as Council on Teacher Education requirements including early field experience and education core courses. Therefore, the present program is a highly prescriptive one, and these students have had little opportunity to take liberal arts electives or additional music courses available on this campus. Aligning the general education requirements for music education with campus requirements will allow these students much needed curricular space.

BUDGETARY AND STAFF IMPLICATIONS

- a. Additional staff and dollars needed. NONE
- b. Internal reallocations for faculty, class size, etc. NONE
- c. Effect on course enrollments in other departments and explanations of discussions with representatives of those departments.
SEE ATTACHED LETTERS
- d. Impact library, computer use, equipment NONE

GUIDELINES FOR UNDERGRADUATE EDUCATION

The general education requirements for music education students will be the same as those required by the UIUC campus.

The implication for your program is as follows:

Previously mandated requirement: 2 hours of Health and Physical Development

Proposed change: no longer a requirement

Number of students in program: typically 40-50 per year

Under the present requirement, our students choose from a variety of classes in Kinesiology and Community Health to meet this requirement. Therefore we anticipate that the effect of reduced enrollment will be minimal for any one course in your department.

Please sign the bottom of this letter indicating your department's endorsement of these curricular changes and forward the letter to Eve Harwood, Associate Dean at the address above. If you have questions or concerns, I would be glad to address them.

Our students will continue to take two natural science and technology courses to meet their campus general education requirements. Because students choose from a wide variety of courses in this category, we anticipate that the effect of reduced enrollment (from 3 courses to 2) will be minimal in any one program in your School.

Previously mandated requirement: One course in American or English literature

Proposed change: One course from the campus Humanities and Arts general education list.

Number of students in program: typically 40-55 per year

We do not anticipate that there will be a large impact on your program for several reasons. Under the existing requirements, our students have selected from a variety of English and American Literature offerings; thus the impact of reduced enrollments will be spread over many courses. Historically, many of our students choose to meet the English literature requirement by transferring credit in from other institutions. As well, we anticipate that many students will continue to choose courses in your department to meet their general education requirements.

Please sign the bottom of this letter indicating your department's endorsement of these curricular changes and forward the letter to Eve Harwood, Associate Dean at the address above. If you have questions or concerns, I would be glad to address them.
