Provide a brief, concise description (not justification) of your proposal.

Undergraduate Minor in Legal Studies: New Courses

Program Justification

Why are these changes necessary?

This proposal adds three new course options for undergraduates seeking to complete the Legal Studies Minor.

The Minor launched in the fall of 2020 with tracks in 1) Law & Politics, 2) Law & Cultures, and 3) Law & the Economics of Food Security and Sustainability. The Minor designated courses for each of the three tracks. The minor is interdisciplinary, and the designated courses are not only offered by the College of Law, but by different units in LAS and ACES.

Even with a minimum GPA requirement, the minor has been popular. In our second semester, we have over 70 enrolled students.

Over the last few months, we have identified additional courses that would be appropriate for students to complete in the two most popular tracks, Law & Politics and Law & Cultures. This proposal seeks formal permission to add these courses. Adding the designated courses will give students the flexibility to select courses that are of particular interest as they move forward to complete the minor. It will also add options for students who may need or wish to complete the minor in a shorter timeframe.

We have the permission of all units and instructors for the classes we seek to add.

Instructional Resources

Will there be any reduction in other course offerings, programs or concentrations by your department as a result of this new program/proposed change?

Program Regulation and Assessment

Briefly describe the plan to assess and improve student learning, including the program's learning objectives; when, how, and where these learning objectives will be assessed; what metrics will be used to signify student's achievement of the stated learning objectives; and the process to ensure assessment results are used to improve student learning. Is the career/profession for graduates of this program regulated by the State of Illinois?

No

Program of Study

"Baccalaureate degree requires at least 120 semester credit hours or 180 quarter credit hours and at least 40 semester credit hours (60 quarter credit hours) in upper division courses" (source: <https://www.ibhe.org/assets/files/PrivateAdminRules2017.pdf>). For proposals for new bachelor's degrees, if this minimum is not explicitly met by specifically-required 300- and/or 400-level courses, please provide information on how the upper-division hours requirement will be satisfied.

An undergraduate minor should consist of at least 16 - and no more than 21 hours - of course work, with at least 6 hours of 300- or 400- level courses. Except clearly remedial offerings, prerequisite courses within the sponsoring unit count towards the total; prerequisite courses outside the sponsoring unit do not count toward this total. The unit sponsoring the minor and that unit's college may set educationally necessary prerequisites for eligibility for the minor within these constraints. Does this proposal meet these criteria?

Yes

All proposals must attach the new or revised version of the Academic Catalog program of study entry. Contact your college office if you have questions.

Library Resources

Describe your proposal's impact on the University Library's resources, collections, and services. If necessary please consult with the appropriate disciplinary specialist within the University Library.

For several years, the College of Law has taught roughly 100-300 undergraduate students and has successfully met their library research needs. We anticipate the same amount of students will enroll in the new minor, so there should be no new impact on the University Library's resources.

As such, because of the impact on other departments, I am sending through as a regular proposal rather than holding for consideration as an admin approval.

Legal Studies Minor: New Courses for Proposed Inclusion

1) Proposal Title: Minor in Legal Studies: New Courses

2) Program Description and Justification

This proposal adds three new course options for undergraduates seeking to complete the Legal Studies Minor.

The Minor launched in the fall of 2020 with tracks in 1) Law & Politics, 2) Law & Cultures, and 3) Law & the Economics of Food Security and Sustainability. The Minor designated courses for each of the three tracks. The minor is interdisciplinary, and the designated courses are not only offered by the College of Law, but by different units in LAS and ACES.

Even with a minimum GPA requirement, the minor has been popular. In our second semester, we have over 70 enrolled students.

Over the last few months, we have identified additional courses that would be appropriate for students to complete in the two most popular tracks, Law & Politics and Law & Cultures. This proposal seeks formal permission to add these courses. Adding the designated courses will give students the flexibility to select courses that are of particular interest as they move forward to complete the minor. It will also add options for students who may need or wish to complete the minor in a shorter timeframe.

We have the permission of all units and instructors for the classes we seek to add.

3) Describe how this revision will impact enrollment and degrees awarded.

As these classes will extend the options for students to complete the minor, it is possible that the additional courses will eventually lead to an increase in enrollment. We should see any effect, downstream, in 2 – 5 years.

4) New Courses

The proposed new courses are as follows:

ANTH 350 (and 399): Cultures of Law (Jessica Greenberg/Beverly Fok)

PS 214: Indian Law & Politics (Robert Pahre)

PSYC 468: Psychology and the Law (Julia Spielmann and Andrea Miller)

All these courses will be tagged for most popular track, Law & Cultures. In addition, the Indian Law & Politics course will also be tagged for the Law & Politics track.

These new classes will be added to the list of currently-approved elective courses.

Thank for your message. Yes, Anthropology is pleased to have ANTH 350 Cultures of Law added to the list of electives for the Legal Studies Minor.

We are just waiting for course approval from LAS but if not approved this month it will be listed as an ANTH 399 class this Fall.

Dear Professor Farnell,

I hope that all is well with you.

Our College of Law has a new Legal Studies Minor. I've had conversations with Jessica Greenberg and Beverly Fok about adding Jessica Greenberg's class, ANTH 350/399: Cultures of Law to the minor. I understand that Beverly will be teaching the class in the Fall of 2021. They have both agreed that this class may be included in our Minor (see the string below).

My continuing conversations with colleagues in the Educational Policy Committee confirm that I will also need a note from the hosting unit indicating approval. Would you feel comfortable replying to this email, saying that the Department of Anthropology supports adding the class to the minor?

With thanks,

Jennie

I have written to Jessica Greenberg to check that she also approves of the arrangement, since this is primarily her course and I'd like to make sure she is on board. I will let you know once I hear from her – although I am quite sure her answer will be an enthusiastic yes!

Hi Tom,

I hope that you and family are doing well.

The College of Law would like to include Bob's class, PS 214: Indian Law and Politics, as an approved course for our new Legal Studies Minor. We are currently adding a selection of courses to the Minor to give students additional options, and this course would be an appropriate addition for both the Law & Cultures and Law & Politics tracks. I believe it is a particularly good time to highlight how the law has treated (and continues to treat) minorities, including Native Americans.

In addition to Bob's approval (which I have -- please see below), our colleagues in the Senate Educational Policy Committee would like to confirm the department's agreement in cases like this. Hence this note to you.

Do you approve our addition of this Poli-Sci class to join the other approved Poli-Sci courses for the College of Law's Legal Studies Minor?

Hi Jennie,

I think that's a great idea, especially as the course is already designed with undergrads in mind.

One issue to consider is that I can't guarantee that the course will be offered consistently into the future. I've transitioned to a 0% title and will only be coming back to teach occasionally. Julia will be graduating within the next couple of years and will presumably take a job somewhere else. But as long as it's OK that the course may be offered somewhat sporadically, I think it's a great option for Legal Studies minors.

Andrea

Dear Deb and Amy,

Thank you for this reminder. We have discussed this issue in the department, and we are happy to have our course as part of the curriculum for the Minor in Legal Studies. Let me know if we need to file paperwork beyond this affirmation.

Deb,

Prof. Kwon is aware of the request and told me that their curriculum committee would be reviewing the request. As far as I know the college of Law did not reach out to them outside the CIMP to discuss this issue, so the generic CIMP email arrived over the summer to the outgoing associate head; with all faculty gone over the summer nothing could be done. It would be great if units would discuss the inclusion of courses they don't control with the controlling units as the curricula is being developed- it would most likely make the CIMP workflow move a bit faster.

Hi Amy,

I'm not sure if I've already responded to this, but yes we are agree to let GLOBL 220 and 260 be used as part of this minor. This sounds like a great offering and I expect a good number of our majors to take part!

Take care,

Hi Amy,

This comes at a great time for us - we are having our administrative retreat tomorrow so I'll put it on our agenda for discussion to make sure that we can provide seats for these minors. We'll let you know as soon as we can confirm.

My first thought is that this is a great minor proposal that will serve a significant number of our majors.

Take care,
-Tim

Dear Dean Amar,

I write on behalf of the Department of Sociology to offer support for the College of Law's proposed Legal Studies Minor. I have had the opportunity to review the College's proposal, and believe that the three focus areas it contemplates offer undergraduates useful instructional options in interesting and important areas of study. These study areas are distinct from Sociology's own minor in Criminology, Law & Society. Accordingly, any prior objection is withdrawn. It is my sincere hope that, over time, Sociology will be able to contribute to the coursework for the minor's Law & Cultures focus.

We hope that this new interdisciplinary minor sponsored by the College of Law will stimulate faculty engagement across disciplines and help to serve students' interests.

Sincerely,

Dear Dean Amar:

I write on behalf of the Political Science Department of the University of Illinois to offer support for the College of Law's proposed Legal Studies Minor.

My colleagues and I have had the opportunity to review the proposal, and in particular the partnership with the Political Science Department that it contemplates. We believe that the "Law & Politics" focus area offers undergraduates a new educational option in a timely, interesting and important area of study. We do not anticipate any difficulties in accommodating any additional student enrollment caused by the new minor.

Further, we are hopeful that this collaboration with the College of Law will further stimulate faculty engagement across disciplines.

Dear Dean Amar:

I write on behalf of the Department of Agricultural & Consumer Economics (ACE) in the College of Agricultural, Consumer and Environmental Sciences (ACES) of the University of Illinois to offer support for the College of Law's proposed Legal Studies Minor.

My colleagues and I have had the opportunity to review the proposal, and in particular, the partnership with ACE for a Law & Economics of Food Security and Sustainability focus that is included in the proposal. We believe that this focus will offer undergraduates an excellent new educational option in a timely, interesting and important area of study. We do not anticipate any difficulties in accommodating any additional student enrollment caused by the new minor.

We are hopeful that this collaboration with the College of Law will further stimulate faculty engagement across disciplines.

Dear Dean Amar:

I write on behalf of the Department of Anthropology of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign to offer support for the College of Law's proposed Legal Studies Minor.

My colleagues and I have had the opportunity to review the proposal, and in particular the partnership with the Anthropology department. We believe that a "Law and Society" track is an excellent opportunity for undergraduates and complements our department's curricular strengths. This combination of courses in the College of Law and Anthropology/LAS will be of great service to our undergraduate population. We also hope this collaboration with the College of Law will grow existing ties between Law and our Department, and stimulate further faculty engagement.
